Decoding Development with Subtypes

With Dario Nardi

If type describes Nature, where is Nurture? How can we see evidence of our Developed Self? From brain imaging data, we see clear neuro-variants or subtypes. Your brain wiring reflects your Developed Self: past, present, and even future. We will explore the four “subtypes,” their potential for coaching, and more.

Ever wonder why people with the same type preferences can seem different in many ways? Come explore the Subtypes with Dario and watch how he sheds light on the mystery of our differences.

About Dario Nardi

Dario Nardi, Ph.D. focuses on neuroscience, personality, games, and body-mind practices. His books include Neuroscience of Personality, Jung on Yoga, and many other titles. Since 2006, he has conducted hands-on EEG brain research. For more: www.RadianceHouse.com

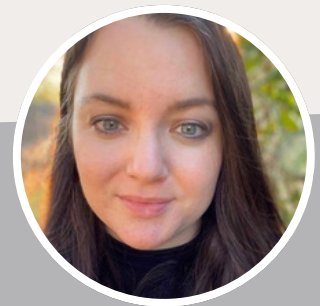

When love languages aren't enough

With Susan Storm

The Five Love Languages by Gary Chapman explores five distinct ways that couples want to receive love. This book is highly praised by therapists and pastors worldwide and is often recommended as a key to relationship bliss. But is the pathway to connection really so simple?

We know personality type has an important role to play. We'll explore how personality type influences the ways we want to give and receive love. We'll also explore some clues in the type code that can help us build better bridges between ourselves and our partners, family members, and friends.

Join us as type influencer Susan Storm takes us deep into type to bring us closer to our loved ones so that they feel loved by us. We usually try to give our loved ones what makes us feel loved. Let's learn to flex so that they feel loved. You'll also get tips to make other relationships in your life work better too.

About Susan Storm

Susan Storm is the founder of PsychologyJunkie.com and the author of four books: Discovering You: Unlocking the Power of Personality Type, The INFJ: Understanding the Mystic, The INTJ: Understanding the Strategist, and The INFP: Understanding the Dreamer. She is a certified MBTI® practitioner, Enneagram coach, and the mother of five beautiful children. She loves using her knowledge of personality type to help individuals understand themselves and others better!

Rising to the Occasion

With John Beebe

Periodically, a situation you find yourself in calls for a kind of consciousness that you already know is weak in you. How do you advance your type development under an external demand like that? Identifying the exact type demands of the situation itself is the first step. The second, however, depends upon how familiar you are with your own archetypal response when called to use that type of consciousness. Only then can you begin to draw upon the strengths behind your weaknesses.

John introduced the 8 Function Theory and the connection between our type preferences and our archetypal patterns to the APTi community. He has been a revered speaker at APTi events for decades. Come and hear the magic he can work by delving into our archetypal patterns so that we can use their power when we need them most.

About John Beebe

John Beebe is the creator of the eight-function-archetype model of psychological types. A Jungian analyst and past president of the C. G. Jung Institute of San Francisco, he is the author of Energies and Patterns in Psychological Type: The Reservoir of Consciousness and co-editor, with Ernst Falzeder, of The Question of Psychological Types: The Correspondence of C. G. Jung and Hans Schmid-Guisan. John has spearheaded a Jungian typological approach to the analysis of film and has written the preface to the Routledge Classics edition of Jung's 1921 book Psychological Types.
